Scope and Contents note

The collection consists of the records of the College Art Association, from 1911-present. The records include administrative files, minutes, committee files, audio-visual materials, and printed materials. The records reflect the organization's mission of advancing the history, interpretation, and practice of the visual arts. The minutes of the Board of Directors provide a complete understanding of the organization's activities from the 1930s-on. Unfortunately, very few records exist from the earliest years of the organization, the 1910s-1920s. Some materials donated by Judy Brodsky, Ferris Olin, and others are incorporated into the collection.

Series 2 Annual Conference 1937-2012  Boxes 3-8 and 37-54, OB1

Scope and Contents note

This series contains materials related to College Art Association’s Annual Conference, which has been the world’s largest international forum for professionals in the visual arts since it began in 1912. Subseries 2.1 includes audio visual material, the majority of which is audio tapes of individual sessions. In addition, there are some video tapes of specific sessions, such as the Annual Artists’ Interviews. Subseries 2.2 relates to contracts with service providers and hotels. Subseries 2.3 includes correspondence with conference participants, CAA staff, and sponsors. In addition, it contains transcripts of papers and talks at specific sessions of the conference. Subseries 2.4 contains contact sheets, negatives, photographs (mostly black and white), and proofs of the Annual Conference. Subseries 2.5 holds published material for the conference, such as preliminary programs, exhibitor and advertiser brochures, directories of attendees, final programs, abstracts, convocation booklets, and exhibition catalogues. Subseries 2.6 consists of press releases and press clippings about the conference. Subseries 2.7 contains attendance statistics and survey results.

Arrangement note

Arranged into 7 subseries: (2.1) Audio visual material, (2.2) Contracts, (2.3) Correspondence and speeches, (2.4) Photographs, (2.5) Printed material, (2.6) Publicity, and (2.7) Statistical information and surveys.

Series 3 Awards 1953-2011  Box 8 and Bound volumes

Scope and Contents note

CAA’s annual awards of distinction program began in 1953 to honor outstanding member achievements and reaffirm its mission to encourage the highest standards of scholarship, practice, connoisseurship, and teaching in the arts. The documents in this series relate to the awards program; of special interest are copies (some original) of the award certificates. Although there is not a lot of information on the administrative aspect of the program, there are some materials that cover issues such as changes in award guidelines and selection of jurors; more extensive information on administrative issues is found in subseries (4.2) and subseries (6.6). The final subseries (3.13) includes proposals for new awards and awards that were only distributed for a short period of time.

Arrangement note

Arranged into thirteen subseries, in alphabetical order by name of award: (3.1) Alfred H. Barr, Jr., Award, (3.2) Art Journal Award, (3.3) Arthur Kingsley Porter Prize, (3.4) Artist Award for Distinguished Body of Work, (3.5) CAA/Heritage Preservation Award for Distinction in Scholarship and Conservation, (3.6) Charles Rufus Morey Book Award, (3.7) Distinguished Artist Award for Lifetime Achievement, (3.8) Distinguished Feminist Award, (3.9) Distinguished Lifetime Achievement Award for Writing on Art, (3.10) Distinguished Teaching of Art Award, (3.11) Distinguished Teaching of Art History Award, (3.12) Frank Jewett Mather Award, and (3.13) Other awards.

Related Archival Materials note
See also Publications>Past Publications>Safe Practices in the Arts and Crafts: A Studio Guide

Scope and Contents note
The Committee for Health and Safe Practices grew out of an article on the topic, published in the 1975 Art Journal. President of CAA at the time, George Sadek, got in touch with a group at the University of Illinois Campuses at Chicago Circle, which was engaged in research on this topic. Ann Goodfellow, from this group, became the chair of the committee around 1976. The committee organized the publication of "Safe Practices in the Arts & Crafts: A Studio Guide," which was published in 2 editions. The book was funded by a grant from the NEA, which was matched by CAA. Additional support came from the University of Illinois Campuses at Chicago Circle and the Medical Center. Correspondence and grant proposal included.

Existence and Location of Originals note

3 original copies of "Safe Practices in the Arts and Crafts: A Studio Guide plus one copy of the list of bookstore discounts.

Correspondence with Reader's Digest 1987-1992  Box 17, Folders 20-21

Scope and Contents note

Correspondence between CAA and the Reader's Digest: documents include letters establishing the partnership, preliminary budgets, information on French visa requirements, terms and conditions of the fellowship, reports (finalists picked, yearly reports), request for additional grant for 1989, proposal for renewal of the program for five more years (1991-1996), and a proposal to the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Foundation for funding for these additional five years. Documents (magazine article, letters, press releases) regarding the dissolution of CAA's relationship with Reader's Digest. Spurred by article written in April 1990 issue of Reader's Digest; article, Our Tax Dollars for This Kind of Art?" by Randy Fitzgerald, criticized the NEA for support "obscene" art. Original and photocopied articles included. NEA response to article included. Other documents include letters from CAA to the editor-in-chief and CEO of Reader's Digest expressing CAA's strong disagreement with the article and request for publication of an alternate point of view. Request never answered. Press release also included which announces dissolution of relationship with the Reader's Digest. Letters from the Reader's Digest to the 1990 artists at Giverny included. Also included are two memos from CAA to artists interested in the program after the dissolution, explaining the situation. Lastly, a letter from the Reader's Digest is included which explains that Arts International (a division of the Institute of International Education) would be administering the program in 1991.

Correspondence with jurors 1988-1990   Box 17, Folders 19-20

Scope and Contents note

Correspondence between Reader's Digest/CAA and potential jurors/confirmed jurors. Includes guidelines and schedule for jurors, requests for participation, and thank you letters.

Publicity 1987-1990   Box 17, Folder 22

Scope and Contents note

Press releases, the majority sent by Reader's Digest, announcing the program, application process, and winners. Various news clippings from newspapers and magazines regarding the Reader's Digest Artists at Giverny Program: articles announce the program, focus on the winners, and follow the winners in Giverny. Other articles review exhibitions by the winners. A poster, from Paper Tiger Television, uses a Norman Rockwell exhibit and asks "Does the CAA Need the Reader's Digest? Or, Does the Reader's Digest Need CAA?".

Series 10 Membership 1955-2012   Boxes 20-21

Scope and Contents note

Since its founding, CAA has regularly issued Standards and Guidelines—professional practices for the fields of art and art history—which are developed by CAA’s committees and special task forces and presented to the Board of Directors for approval. Published formally since 1973, the Standards and Guidelines are divided into four categories: career and workplace, ethics, legal issues, and best practices for arts professionals. The documents in this series include copies (some photocopies) of the adopted guidelines and drafts, and any subsequent revisions. In addition, there is some correspondence regarding the guidelines, but only a few documents from the 1980s.
